

4 Reasons to Attend the Learning Network Forum on Gender-Based Violence Work in Context

“Intersectionality draws attention to invisibilities that exist in feminism, in anti-racism, in class politics, so, obviously, it takes a lot of work to consistently challenge ourselves to be attentive to aspects of power that we don't ourselves experience. - Kimberlé Crenshaw”

1. Gain knowledge of how structural violence operates in Canada and how we can promote agency, resistance, and resilience

2. Learn how structural violence affects gender-based violence work

3. Connect and engage with other thought leaders in the field

4. Bring insights and information back to your workplace

Join us on Tuesday, October 8th in London, Ontario

Register now: vawlearningnetwork.ca

Contact us: vawln@uwo.ca

Western
Centre for Research & Education on Violence Against Women & Children

LEARNING NETWORK